Output Solutions

Digital technology is vital in today's modern workplace, and multifunction solutions based on network laser printing are most desirable. Why? Multifunction printing solutions allow you to print, fax, scan and email your ideas around the office or around the world. By printing often-used documents directly from the printer panel and using additional software, you can easily improve workflow efficiency and productivity by streamlining document delivery and management.

Our Strategy - A planned approach to the implementation and management of output devices including assessment of the current output environment and future needs.

Did you know?

- Today's MultiFunction Printers (MFPs) can print over 49 pages per minute.
- The printing industry estimates 35% of company literature is thrown away because it's outdated.
- You can save from 20 to 40% by choosing an MFP rather than 4 single-function products.
- Among a group of organizations that use MFPs for document capture and distribution, 71% reported better document workflows and smoother business operations.
- Companies spend 1-3% of revenue each year on output fleet management.

Benefits

- Distribute, capture and manipulate electronic documents by scanning to e-mail or scanning to PC.
- Cost-saving, user-friendly fax functions eliminate the expense of traditional fax machines.
- Maximizes productivity of work-group printing. Easy-to-use functions, based on a distributed, "scan once/print many" foundation, increases user productivity.
- Network laser printers provide superior quality documents more reliably and cost effectively than digital copiers or copier-based multifunction devices.
- Superior performance and network-proven reliability enable users to produce high quality documents at the lowest total cost of ownership.
- In addition to saving money on supply costs, you can save money on total cost of ownership by consolidating vendors, devices and functions and by improving document workflow.
